

THE EASTWEST INSTITUTE'S SIXTH WORLDWIDE SECURITY CONFERENCE

From the Global War on Terror to Common Security and Joint Action

18 – 19 February, 2009

World Customs Organization Headquarters

Rue du Marché, 30

B-1210 Brussels, Belgium

Set in Brussels, the Worldwide Security Conference is a rolling series of debates, workshops, and publications. This conference, EWI's sixth, is co-sponsored by the World Customs Organization and the Italian Foreign Ministry in its capacity as Chair of the G-8.

The Worldwide Security Conference provides an opportunity for policy makers, specialists, journalists, and business leaders to craft new solutions to ongoing challenges for global security.

In line with the mission of the EastWest Institute, The Worldwide Security Conference:

- Convenes government, business and civil society to build effective, collective action, and
- Mobilizes the intellectual capacities and human resources of its participants to foster human security.

Conference participants will:

- Review the current state of global security.
- Explore ways to secure international borders without undermining opportunities for trade, investment, education, and immigration.
- Discuss effective nuclear disarmament.
- Revisit the security needs agreed by world leaders at the 2005 Millennium Review Summit (non-proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and disarmament; defeating terrorism and organized crime; overcoming economic and social threats).
- Establish consensus on climate change as a serious threat to human security, one that demands transnational action.
Implement an effective system of joint action.
